POINTS

Delicate enticing aromas of woodland berry, pressed rose, pipe tobacco, leather and wild herb waft out of the glass. Reflecting the nose, the elegant palate offers Marasca cherry, wild raspberry and ground clove framed in polished tannins. Fresh acidity lends balance. It's linear, subtle and already enjoyable.

Classic Sangiovese aromas of wild berry, just-turned soil, leather and a hint of underbrush unfold in the glass. The bright, juicy palate offers layers of rich wild cherry, black raspberry, cinnamon and pipe tobacco framed in firm, velvety tannins. A licorice note closes the finish.

Crocedimezzo, Riserva 2010 Brunello di Montalcino Tasted blind. Very heavy bottle! Maturing ruby with orange rim. Pretty nose of sour cherry and with hints of undergrowth. Seems older than it is. Supple palate but the fruit fades a little and the acidity becomes dominant.

The 1999 Brunello di Montalcino Riserva is a different and interesting wine that is loaded tight with aromas of Indian spice and teriyaki sauce. Dried fruit, leather, cola and menthol notes also fall into place. This wine points the Brunello aging trajectory in a whole new direction thanks to its strikingly exotic bouquet. It drinks beautifully right now but should hold many more years. Let the wine breathe a few hours before consumption.
